THE DAY'S DOINGS IN WESTERLY

Stolen Wheel Recovered—George Trant's Death Recalls Tragedy—School Arts Guild Awards—Prizes for Local Flower-Grower—Louis P. Flanagan's Death.

Last Saturday a bicycle was stolen from Potter Hill, and Chief Brandfield requested the Providence police to be on the lookout for the wheel and if possible to arrest and hold the thief.
Tuesday afternoon the chief received telephone notice from Providence that a bicycle thief from Westerly was in custody, but that the bicycle did not answer the description of the one stolen from Potter Hill.

Chief Brandfield learned through Pasquale Salomone that a bicycle belonging to Charles Monck had been stolen from a veranda of a Pleasant street house some time after midnight Monday. A description of this bicycle was telephoned to Providence and called by the one held by the Providence police.

Chief Brandfield went to Providence Tuesday evening and returned on a late train with Charles Rhodes of Wakefield and the stolen bicycle which was identified as the property of Monck.

Wednesday morning Rhodes was arraigned before Judge Oliver H. Williams charged with the theft of the bicycle, and pleaded guilty. He had been out of the city for some time and wanted to go to Providence to see if he could obtain employment there and took the bicycle for conveyance. After he arrived in Providence he was hungry and tried to sell the bicycle to get money to buy food. He negotiated for the sale with two boys.
They informed Police Detective Wilkinson and his arrest followed.

Rhodes is of muscular build, is 23 years of age, and said he had never been arrested before. He said he had worked in Westerly in the home of Young stables, but had done no work for the past three months. He is one of the witnesses in the bribery case brought against James Tourjee and is one of the four negroes whom it is alleged Tourjee bribed at the last town election.

Judge Williams after hearing the case suspended judgment and ordered the accused held until sentence was imposed.

The finding of the dead body of James Trant in his room in the Leonard house recalls the tragic death of Dennis McGrath, a quarter of a century ago, when Trant with several others was held during the investigation. All were discharged as there was not sufficient evidence to convict any of the party of the serious crime.
McGrath and the others were in Barber's woods on a Saturday night enjoying themselves as was the custom at that time. There was a row and McGrath was brutally beaten. The story goes that he was taken into a shed, with one eye gouged out, his body a mass of bruises from kicks of his assailants, but still alive.

After he was missing for four days, there was a meeting of quarrymen and it was voted not to work the next day, but to devote the time for a search for McGrath, who was a favorite with his fellow workers. It is said that the guilty parties, fearing detection if the searching party found McGrath alive, strangled him to death and conveyed the body to the Pawcatuck river where it was found a few days later on the Rhode Island side of the river, opposite the thread mill. When the body was found there was unmistakable signs that he had been strangled to death for finger prints were plainly discernible on the dead man's throat.

There was great excitement at the time and every man who was with McGrath in the woods was taken into custody but the most vigorous examination failed to elicit any damaging testimony against any individual.
When the excitement was at its height, a clairvoyant was visited by someone who had faith that the missing man would be found through her mediumship. She said that the body would be found in the water, but that death was caused by violence rather than by drowning. She added that none of the men in any way connected with the affair would die a natural and peaceful death. In this particular her prophecy has been amply verified. A man in Westerly who is familiar with all the circumstances said Wednesday that fifteen of the party have since passed away and that most of them died in a way that was not ordinary.

The September School Arts Book, just out, after summer vacation, announced the awards in the May contest of the School Arts Guild. The prize winners of the Westerly schools are: John Champlin, Jr., Elm Street school; Clementina De Rocco, Quarry school.

Louis P. Flanagan, who was overseen in the Reuben Lindley Woolen mill, now occupied in part as the Star theater, and who resided in West Broad street twenty years ago, died suddenly Saturday in the Stanley plant, Pittsfield, Mass., where he has been employed as machinist for several years. He was 53 years of age.
The morning in apparent good health and went to his work in the regular department. At nine o'clock he went to the door about to inspect a new machinery. While attempting to return he suddenly collapsed, became black in the face and died immediately. The medical examiner gave uraemic convulsions as the cause of death.
He was son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Flanagan of Pittsfield and is survived by his wife, a son and a daughter also, two sisters and his brothers, Misses Nellie and Isabelle of Pittsfield, Thomas, Charles, Edward and James of Waterbury, John of Ghent, N. Y., and William of Springfield.

Local Laconics.

William S. Mowry of Woonsocket is visiting Westerly friends.

Edward R. Dunn, a common drunkard, was sentenced to the third district court to six months in the state workhouse.

Rev. and Mrs. William M. Groton, who have spent the summer in Westerly, returned Wednesday to their home in Philadelphia.

The dormitory for the Rhode Island State college at Kingston is nearly completed. It has been well done by the Westerly contractor.

George Traggis, who was operated upon for appendicitis at Memorial hospital, New London, Tuesday, was in a satisfactory condition on Wednesday afternoon.

A large quantity of valuable supplies for the sick room have been presented to the Westerly Visiting Nurse association, by the family of William H. Singer, the Pittsfield multi-millionaire, who recently died at Watch Hill.

George S. Stillman of Westerly at the Kingston fair was awarded first premium on collection of cactus dahlia, first and decorative, first in show and fancy, first on single and first on pompon dahlias. The Stillman collection received all first premiums in their class, which is the best that grows.

The cases of ten army chauffeurs, who passed through Westerly in quartermaster department auto cars, bound for the war game in Massachusetts, Aug. 13, and who were arrested in Providence for exceeding the speed limit, were assigned for trial in the Sixth district court Tuesday. By agreement the cases were continued until Sept. 26.

Marlin Babcock, charged jointly with Arthur Maine with stealing $45 worth of ice cream from Maine's father, has been sentenced to sixty days in jail by Judge Albert R. Stillman of the Stonington court. Babcock took an appeal to the superior court, and furnished bonds of $200. Maine received like sentence two weeks ago and was committed.

WOODSTOCK FAIR.

Good Attendance on Closing Day—Special Features—Cattle Awards.

There was a good last day crowd at Woodstock fair and its closing was well maintained interest. The exhibits in all departments received the same close attention, as on the middle day.

Interesting Curios.

One of the specially interesting exhibits that escaped the attention of many of the visitors was a collection of Indian implements and old pottery shown by Oliver Hancock of Woodstock Valley. The pottery exhibit include a milk pail and a bear pot manufactured in the Quassitt neighborhood of Woodstock by Thomas Bugbee nearly one hundred years ago.

Afternoon Events.

The special events arranged for Wednesday included a ballroom action and the ladies and gentlemen's driving class, as well as the two trotting classes on the card, the results of which are given in the summary.
Awards to cattle, horses and ox teams

PUTNAM

Appeal from Probate in Will of William Ross, Stepfather of Governor—Elect Clark—September Visitors in Local Homes—Personal.

The case of James M. Grant's appeal from probate in the will of William Ross of Chaplin was tried in the superior court in this city Wednesday morning. Judge William L. Bennett on the bench.

The appeal of James M. Grant of Hartford as an uncle and heir at law of William Ross, who died in Chaplin on December 30, 1908, after a few hours after signing the will being contested. The grounds of the appeal are that the testator was not of sound mind at the time of making the will was lacking in legal capacity and was acting under the undue influence of Emily J.
Ross, his wife. The estate involved was a large one.

The will was allowed and ordered recorded by Merritt Welch, judge of the probate court of Chaplin, on Jan.
25, 1909. The case came to the superior court at Putnam, where it was argued by Harry Hunter, Charles A.
Capen of Willimantic and Charles L.
Torrey represent the appellants, and Attorneys W. A. King, Samuel H.
Harvey of Willimantic and State Attorney Charles E. Sehnris the appellee.

The Jury Panel.

The case is to go to a jury which is composed of the following: Wesley Wilson, Danielson, J. Richard Carpenter, Putnam; G. C. Spooner, Sterling; Alfred E. Hyde, Plainfield; John Sanger, Mowry, Ross, Woodstock; Walter S. Arnold, Claus A. Hagstrom, Thompson; Alex. M. Bassett, Ashford; Austin E. Pearl, Hampton; Charles Barstow, Canterbury.

Judge Welch was the first witness and he exhibited the will, which was read by Attorney Harvey.

Principal Requests.

By its terms the principal bequest is $3,500 to the town of Chaplin for a library, $2,000 to the Congregational church of Chaplin, $1,000 to Mary Swift and the remainder of the real and personal estate, which is by far the greatest part, to Emily J. Ross, wife of the deceased.

Dr. Knight Testifies.

Dr. Charles M. Knight of Chaplin, taking the stand as a witness, testified that he was a witness of the will and that W. A. King and the other two witnesses were present when the will was signed. Dr. Knight said that in his best opinion Mr. Ross was in his right mind. Cross examined by Attorney Torrey, Dr. Knight testified that Mr. Ross had several ailments previous to the last one, and that six years ago he had suffered an attack of paralysis. Dr. Knight said that he had informed Mrs. Ross that her husband was very sick and might die at any time, and if there was any business to be done it ought to be done at once.

Mrs. Ross Not Present.

At the time of making the will he was called to the Ross home and found Mr. Ross with a high temperature, but during the evening he seemed to improve and still seemed to be in his right mind. Dr. Knight told of going to the room with the other witnesses to the will, but said that Mrs. Ross did not go in. When Mr. King asked Ross if it was his last will and testament Ross replied that it was.

Witnessed Will.

William Lamphear of Chaplin, a witness of the will, said that he was called to the house for the purpose and said that Mr. Ross signed the will with a fountain pen, and that Mrs. Bingham was in the room at the time when the will was signed. He testified that Mr.
Ross was in a sound state of mind.

On cross examination by Mr. Torrey, Lamphear testified that he had worked for Mr. Ross for several years before his death, and saw no particular change in his mental capacity. Lamphear said that in signing the will Mr.
Ross said it was his last will and free act and that the sick man had no difficulty in making his signature.

Peleg Bromley, the third witness of the will, testified to the same effect as Lamphear as to Ross making his signature.

Afternoon Session.

At the afternoon session Lindsay A.
Denning, First Selectman H. A. Taft, Judge Welch and Mrs. Sarah Wae were on the stand as witnesses. All are of Chaplin.

Judge Welch in testifying as to his opinion of Mr. Ross' mental capacity previous to the latter's illness, said that he had always regarded Mr. Ross as an exceptionally sagacious business man before his illness. After his illness he appeared at first to grow weaker physically and later apparently weakened mentally also. During the last year of his life there was a decided change.

Judge Welch said he admitted the will to probate and that there had been no contest.

The testimony of the last named witnesses was to the effect that in their opinion Mr. Ross had weakened mentally during the last year of his life.

The case will be continued today (Thursday).

Mother of Walter E. Clark.

Mrs. Ross is mother of Walter E.
Clark of Chaplin, recently appointed governor of Alaska.
